What does "compliant state" mean?

Effective June 2, 2015, U.S. citizens requesting unescorted access to EMSL will need to provide a 1) a valid driver's license that is compliant with federally mandated standards set forth under the Real ID Act of 2005, or 2) one of the alternative forms of ID listed above.

States that meet the standards established by the Department of Homeland Security or who have asked for extensions in order to respond to the requirements are considered in compliance. To see if your state is compliant, please visit this website: <https://www.dhs.gov/current-status-states-territories>. Note that if you are from a non-compliant states/territories, an Enhanced Driver's License may still be accepted as a form of ID.

What if my driver's license or ID card is from a non-compliant state?

If your standard driver's license or ID card is issued from a state not currently in compliance with the REAL ID Act, you must bring one of the other forms of valid ID listed above. If you don't have a second form of photo ID listed above, you will receive a badge for escorted access. This means you will need to be with an EMSL staff member at all times.
